

Dear colleagues of Analytical Psychology!

As in the previous year, the Austrian Society for Analytical Psychology would like to organize an online training series called "from the Jungian perspective" for those who is interested in our methodology in the coming training year. As a result, we look forward to your cooperation in this project!

The aim is to design a 90-minute lecture - including discussion from a Jungian perspective - on topics and events that affect you either personally or on a collective level.

Invited are all persons who are interested in the methodology of Analytical Psychology according to C.G. Jung and would like to share their perspective and insights. There are no limits to creativity when choosing a topic.

This training series will take place in an online meeting organized by us (19:00-20:30) on the last Tuesday of each month (October to June - except December). Please let us know a potential preferred date if you have one in mind. Available are:

28.10.2025	25.11.2025	27.01.2026	24.02.2026
31.03.2026	28.04.2026	26.05.2026	30.06.2026

The deadline for submitting your short presentation is August 31, 2025
Message to event@cgjung.at

In times in which the opposing space is increasingly filled with tension, it is our motivation to create a constructive cooperation and to cultivate the important connecting element of communication for those interested in analytical psychology.

We look forward to your ideas and your willingness to help to shape the event!
